CONFLICT MINERALS POLICY

Everyday is committed to being a responsible corporate citizen and is opposed to human rights abuses. As part of that commitment, Everyday seeks to source products, components and materials from companies that share our values around human rights, ethics and environmental responsibility

Revenue generated from mining and transport of conflict minerals (Tantalum, tin, tungsten, gold) is believed to be financing or benefiting groups that are responsible for human rights violations specifically in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) and adjoining countries.

Everyday supports industry wide efforts to identify, reduce and hopefully eliminate the use of conflict minerals originating from the DRC and adjoining countries to the extent believed to be financing or benefiting groups committing human rights violations.

Suppliers to Everyday are expected to establish their own conflict mineral policies, due diligence frameworks and management systems that are designed to prevent conflict minerals originating from the DRC and adjoining countries, to the extent that they benefit groups committing human rights violations, from being included in the products sold to Everyday Technologies.
